

NIPC 514575581, created in September 2017 with the following purpose:

- To reclaim and revive the ancient spiritual dimension of this territory called the Garden of the Hesperides;
- To recover the historical and prehistoric knowledge, native or relevant to Portugal, of female divinities, the Goddess, as well as the cults and cultures associated with them, namely the ancient cultures orientated towards partnership, or gilany;
- To publicise studies and discoveries about the ancient cult of female divinity in our territory and to facilitate access to this knowledge by Portuguese and international society;
- To establish a point of reference (virtual and physical) for the transmission of this knowledge and for meeting in Sacred and Ceremonial Space;
- to develop gender awareness and its implications for social organisation, defending and promoting equality in dignity and rights between women and men, namely by visualising a model of the Divine Feminine that has been denied for over three thousand years;
- To deconstruct patriarchal models of thought that are dominant in human society today, paving the way for the conception of new cultural, political, social, educational and spiritual paradigms, favouring a return to the values of a Gilanic society (dominated by the principle of partnership between women and men), which are fairer and more ecological, contributing to peace and sustainability;
- To promote, defend and work for the respect and preservation of nature as the physical manifestation of divinity;
- To promote, defend and work for respect for multiculturalism, as an example of human biodiversity, working with goddesses from all cultures throughout time and space;
- To recognise Paganism, a religiosity centred on Nature, as the oldest religious practice in this territory and claim its status as a religion alongside other legally recognised religions;
- To recognise and recover ancient sacred places in this territory and the right to use them for religious purposes, as was the case in the past, as long as this does not pose any risk to their physical integrity and in good conditions of preservation;
- To develop knowledge of ancient spiritual instruments, rituals and traditions that are part of humanity's cultural heritage and contribute to the practice of holistic spirituality;
- To organise national and international events that contribute to the realisation of the above objectives.
